

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT THROUGH STRATEGIC COACHING AND MENTORING

"This solution focussed course will enable you to acquire the leadership skills and resources required to implement a successful strategic coaching and mentoring programme.

Over four sessions you will learn the benefits of creating a coaching and mentoring culture within your organisation, the impact of organisational alignment and how to unlock the potential in others.

'Creating a coaching culture takes time but doesn't take a lot of investment. If it's done in a smart way, it's one of the most impactful programmes you're ever likely to implement' Parsloe (2017)''

The course leaders are:

Dr Patrick McGovern - an education specialist with over 40 years' experience of teaching, research, education management and senior leadership in schools, universities and now as a leadership coach and consultant for school improvement.

Demelza Bolton – Demelza is a qualified coach and mentor and has worked in school leadership across a range of different settings and roles. She is an affiliated member of the Chartered Management Institute and has worked within the central team of a large primary academy focussing on school improvement and is currently working as an Executive Head.
